BILLBOARD ORDINANCE SUSTAINED.

This morning Judge Welch of our Superior Court gave a decision for the East San Jose town officials in the suit tried and submitted to him several weeks ago involving the validity of the Billboard Ordinance of this town. It will be recalled that the Board of Trustees passed an ordinance regulating bill and sign boards in East San Jose, and providing for their removal, after notice to the owner to remove the same and his refusal to do so, by the Town Marshal. Varney & Green, a large San Francisco advertising company have maintained in East San Jose for a number of years three large, unsightly billboards, usually filled up with advertisements of whiskies, beer, tobacco, etc., etc., to the great annoyance and detriment of the community. The Marshal served upon Varney & Green a notice under the ordinance to take these boards away, and they refused to do so, and, as the Marshal was about to proceed to remove them, as directed by the ordinance, Varney & Green commenced this suit against him and the Trustees to secure a permanent injunction restraining them from taking the boards down. The case was tried upon its merits, the contention of Varney & Green being that the ordinance was violative of the State Constitution, and therefore void, and did not justify the Marshal in acting. This was the main point argued. Heller & Powers, San Francisco attorneys appeared for Varney & Green and Jackson Hatch for the Marshal and Trustees.

We regard this decision, holding as it does that the Trustees had full power to enact the ordinance and that its enactment was a proper, constitutional and valid exercise of municipal powers, as a most signal victory in the line of municipal progress in East San Jose, and a victory, too, that will place the efforts we are making here in the front rank of achievements in civic improvement. This decision will be read with the greatest interest all over the United States, and will give point and confidence to those communities—to be found everywere—in which the crusade against the billboard is in progress.—Post.

This ruling will be of interest to Campbell in that it shows one way of getting rid of unsightly billboards—by local self-government. Fortunately we have not been much bothered by the billboard nuisance, but it will come before long. Let us aim to keep our town a model of neatness. It will pay.

As soon as the weather will permit steps should be taken to properly safeguard Campbell avenue and the adjacent property by a substantial cement bulkhead running south for some distance.

AN OPEN LETTER.

The California Promotion Committee Appeals to Californians.

San Francisco, March 13th.

Mr. F. W. Foss,
President, Berkeley Chamber of Commerce.

Honorable Aiden Anderson,
President, Chamber of Commerce, Sacramento Calif.

Gentlemen:—

As you know, The California Promotion Committee is interested in all matters that have to do with the development of the State, and on that account you will, it is hoped, take this communication in the spirit in which it is intended.

The location of the State Capitol is of interest and concern to all Californians.

Your attention is respectfully called to the method of the campaign that is about to start to carry out the action of the Legislature in submitting to the question of the removal of the State Capitol from Sacramento to Berkeley. It is believed that the men who will be active in this matter love California too well to do anything, even in the heat of battle, that will have a tendency to disparage any part of California, for by disparagement of any part of California, the entire State suffers. It has been observed, with regret, that there has already been a tendency on the part of some in this campaign, which is yet in its infancy, to make statements especially regarding climate, which cannot fail to do harm. As is well known to you, the climate of California is its great asset. The climate in all parts of California is desirable, and its very diversity increases the value of the asset in that what will suit one, may not suit another, but in California there is for those who are looking for it a climate that will suit every one. Therefore, gentlemen, do not let climate enter into your campaign.

No doubt this matter has appealed to you before, but I would suggest that it be taken up and acted upon in such a way that not only will the leaders in the campaign refrain from using the argument of climate, but that instructions will be given to the workers in the field to act on the suggestions contained in this letter, and I assure you that by so doing, you will receive the plaudits of all true Californians.

I am sending a copy of this letter to the press of the State.

Cordially yours,
(Signed)
RUFUS P. JENNINGS,
Chairman.

CALIFORNIA GETS DRENCHING.

Santa Clara County and Campbell is Getting a Good Share.

Campbell citizens have witnessed the worst weather the past week that has occurred for many years. Indeed not since the memorable winter of 1889-1890 has the Los Gatos creek done so much damage by water. Early in the week the creek began to rise and the Almaden railroad trestle gave way, nearly all of the piles being gradually undermined and washed down the stream. The rails of both the Southern Pacific and Interurban Companies across the trestle, with the strong bolting of timber, caused the structure to hold together, although hanging dangerously near the water. Soon a construction crew was on hand to cut the live electric wires and since then the "short line" has been out of commission south of Campbell, but a local car has been doing service from where the Interurban cars connect with the Almaden cut-off on the Los Gatos road. The passengers are taken to Los Gatos and to San Jose by the Saratoga route.

The Almaden steam narrow gauge road of course is out of service, that town now being served by the broad gauge route via Hillsdale.

At the time the trestle went out the Page irrigating dam washed away and the creek began to wash heavily on the west side of the creek where the headgate was originally located. A large sycamore tree at the side of the roadway washed into the stream. The regular road leading over to the Casey road will have to be levelled up when the water ceases.

The Santa Clara Valley Water Co. lost a part of its dam, which is situated a little further to the south. In fact it would be hard to find a headgate or dam that has not suffered to a greater or less extent. It will require several thousand dollars to repair the damage done to the irrigating ditches.

At the Campbell avenue bridge it was thought that the cement structure would be left on the east bank, with a new channel cut through west of the bridge, destroying the dwellings and property of those living just west of the bridge, taking the county road and Interurban track and wash away part of J. H. Robinson's orchard home.

As it is the channel worked in behind the wooden bulkhead at the rear of the four or five houses situated on the south side of the avenue and began to wash away the bank. It was soon discovered that these houses and the goods of the people living in them were in danger, as the bank was crumbling away rapidly. This was on Wednesday, and it was still raining. The people living in these four houses started in to move. Willing hands assisted. Page brothers were secured to move the houses into the street. There was great excitement. Early in the morning one of the barns floated down through the bridge, lodging between the piling of the Interurban trestle, that structure having already lost one tier of piles. It was dislodged by the construction crew and it floated on down the rapid stream only to lodge against the already weak Hamilton avenue bridge. Supervisor Roll was on the scene at the time and went to San Jose for help to save the bridge. F. B. Billings and others went to work. Ten county prisoners, in care of Deputy Sheriffs Buffington, Mulhall and Griswold were sent to assist. They worked faithfully, but the water was fast backing up and cutting around the abutments, which it succeeded in doing, crossing the street and washing away much of A. C. Keesling's land, that gentleman doing valiant service in an effort to save the bridge. It appeared at one time that Mr. Keesling's new home was in danger. Page brothers were secured again and they succeeded in pulling enough piles out to allow the debris to pass. A new bridge will have to be built over the creek on Hamilton avenue.

The only thing that kept the creek from cutting clear through Campbell avenue was the stringing of ten or twelve barb wires across the channel where it first broke through to the rear of the houses. This was accomplished with difficulty by Messrs. Ainsley, Hagelin, Miracle, Call, Sawyer, Weeks, and others. Brush drifted into the wire and sand bags were placed to hold the brush. This turned the channel and thereafter very little cutting of the bank occurred. As it is the bank is within three or four feet of the sidewalk in one place, and varying from that to fifteen feet. The washed out strip extends from the cement wing of the bridge west to and in back of Mr. Garcia's new cottage, a distance of some 250 feet. Probably an acre of land was inundated, but much sediment is now deposited there, the water having receded to former channel.

Saturday morning the water reached high water mark for the year, but the wire dam saved the day. The water flowed very rapidly and F. M. Righter lost considerable land.

It becoming apparent on Saturday morning that the two-story building originally owned by the late John Carhart (the present owner being a non-resident) would gradually settle and fall into the stream, thereby endangering the county bridges, Supervisor Roll ordered it torn down, the wood being given to those tearing it to pieces. The Page brothers were again pressed into service and with cable, horse and windlass pulled it down.

In this ruthless washing away of property some suffering will result, no doubt. Willing hands have done much but it does return lost property. Where the houses of these people are to be moved to we have not heard.

Public Library Annual Meeting.

On Monday evening, March 25, will occur the annual meeting of the Campbell Library Association, when the annual reports of officers will be received and new officers elected for the coming year.

Rev. A. H. Needham was in the city this week on business.

Mrs. Minnie Lewis is home from a visit with her sister in San Francisco.

Mrs. Grace Malcomes of Vacaville is visiting her sister, Mrs. Chas. Page.

In a letter from Miss Dawson to a friend we learn that Mr. Wm. K. Donlon is the preacher in charge of the new Protestant church at Carmel-by-the-sea, and is well liked by the people there.

Mr. and Mrs. Joshua Peare of Chicago, Mrs. S. G. Nelson's uncle and aunt, have gone to their home, but will return here as soon as arrangements can be made. They travelled over the State and decided to locate here, having secured a place that suited them.

Passion week will be observed the coming week at the Congregational church by appropriate services. There will be services each evening during the week, except Wednesday and Saturday. On Wednesday afternoon there will be a service at which Dr. Windsor will speak. The Pastor, Rev. G. E. Atkinson, will be assisted in the special services by Rev. A. H. Needham, Rev. Mr. Patchell of San Jose, Rev. Mr. Mitchell of Saratoga, and Dr. Wm. Windsor.
